SOVIET RESISTANCE GROWING

RELIEF ARMY ADVANCES ON STALINGRAD

THE fiercest battle is still raging in the factory belt on the north-west outskirts of Stalingrad, where the Germans state that "incredible Russian resistance" is as stiff as ever, but claim to have advanced slightly. In the city, Moscow states, German troops were driven out of a number of positions. Communications between single fighting groups are hardly possible any longer through the smoke of exploding shells and the dust of crashing houses.

Marshal Timoshenko's relief offensive against the German left flank is progressing at a number of points, despite heavy counter-attacks, but his forces are still too far from Stalingrad to have an immediate effect on the battle for the city.

Soviet troops, in a new drive on the Bryansk front south-west of Moscow, have recaptured an important inhabited locality, which is also a railway junction, and heavy fighting has developed on the north-western front, in the Lake Ilmen region.—(Reuter.)

MOSCOW, Friday.—Reuter's Correspondent says:—"Inside the maelstrom of fire and death that is Stalingrad the Russian position has worsened. Fresh German reinforcements hurled into the streets in the wake of scores of tanks have made some advance in the north-western suburbs. The struggle for the city has now resolved itself into a battle of double encirclement. The inner circle is formed by the German line drawn around the city, and General von Hoth's offensive across the northern tip of Stalingrad is an attempt to complete the ring. Along the other circle, Marshal Timoshenko has launched two offensives from the north and the south, both curving along towards the Don in the German rear. It is now a race against time whether Timoshenko can draw his net tight before the Germans reduce the garrison to submission.

SOVIET HEADWAY

"Both arms of the Russian offensive have made headway in the last twenty-four hours. In the south another strategic village has been recaptured, and in the north the Germans have been driven from ravines and heights, while violent fighting is now going on inside another village, which the Germans are determined to hold at all costs. The Germans brought up a strong force of armoured cars and tanks against the Red Army here, but they were met by a hurricane of artillery and anti-tank fire and forced to turn back."

Reuter's Stockholm Correspondent says: "No further information is available of the progress of the Russian offensive in the north-west, but encouraging reports are being received of Timoshenko's other attack against the enemy's right flank south of the city, where infantry, supported by the guns of the Volga flotilla, has made headway. These operations are taking place between fifteen and twenty miles from Stalingrad, and appear to be based on Krasnoar-Meisk, which is still in Russian hands. It is clear that, despite local successes, neither of these flank blows has so far influenced the battle for the city itself. The Germans have thrown fresh reinforcements into the streets and compelled the defenders to yield new ground."

LONDON, Friday. — To-day's German communiqué said that in the north-western part of the Caucasus the attacking German troops gained further ground.

North-west of Stalingrad the strongly fortified suburb of Orlovka was taken by storm and major enemy forces were encircled west of this suburb.

On the northern front renewed enemy relief attacks were repelled. The number of tanks shot up on the previous day has risen to 124.

South of Lake Ladoga (Leningrad front) the annihilation of enemy divisions encircled during the past few days' fighting is nearly completed.

SOVIET COMMUNIQUE

MOSCOW, Friday. — To-night's Soviet communiqué states: "During October 2 our troops engaged the enemy in the areas of Stalingrad and Mozdok." The supplement states that in the Stalingrad area fierce fighting continues. In one part of the city strong, repeated attacks by tanks and infantry were repelled and seven hundred Germans killed. In another sector Soviet troops forged ahead and cleared a number of houses, and about one battalion of enemy infantry was annihilated. South of Stalingrad a battalion of German infantry drove a wedge into Soviet positions, but the initial position was re-established after Soviet counter-attacks.

"North-west of Stalingrad our troops made headway at a number of points. The Germans were dislodged from fortified positions, and gains were made in the area of an important height, and 130 German tanks dug in as strong points were captured.

"In the Mozdok area Soviet troops in one sector retired to new positions after repelling enemy attacks with heavy losses to the enemy.

"In the Voronezh area Soviet tommy-gunners penetrated enemy barbed-wire entanglements, and are fighting inside the enemy defence area. They have wiped out one company of the enemy. On another sector the enemy crossed a water barrier, but was repulsed with heavy losses.

"South-east of Novorossisk Soviet troops fought heavy actions. The enemy in one sector drove a wedge in our positions, but was flung back to the starting point by a determined counter-attack."—(Reuter.)

NEW INDIAN CONFERENCE

SOLVING AN IMPASSE

FAZ LUL HUQ, Premier of Bengal, has invited about 30 leaders of the Hindu, Moslem, and other communities belonging to various shades of political opinion, to an informal conference at New Delhi on October 6. The object is to "devise ways and means of solving the present political impasse."

One person was killed and one injured when police fired on crowds attempting to take out processions in celebration of Gandhi's birthday at Chandnichowk and neighbourhood yesterday, says a Reuter telegram from New Delhi.

In one attempt the crowd pelted the police with bricks when ordered to disperse. The police made a lathi charge. Later a crowd numbering two thousand threw stones at the police, who fired twelve rounds. Two other persons were wounded in a lathi charge.

As part of the day's celebrations, schoolgirls and elderly women went out selling pictures of Gandhi.

CUSTOMS EVASION CHARGES

ENNIS DIRECTOR IN COURT

At Ennis District Court yesterday, before District Justice D. F. Gleeson, twenty-two charges concerning the alleged fraudulent evasion of Customs duties were preferred against Walter Chapman, of Bindon street, Ennis, and director of Messrs. Jordan, Ltd., proprietors of the Ennis Braid Mills. There were twenty similar charges against the company. Mr. K. Dixon, with Mr. J. Geraghty (Mr. M. J. Walshe, State Solicitor), prosecuted. Mr. J. Costello, with Mr. C. Lavery and Mr. G. Kenny (Mr. E. Monahan), for Mr. Chapman. Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald, with Mr. T. O'Higgins (Messrs. A. Cox and Co.), for L. Jordan, Ltd. Mr. P. F. Moloney, solicitor, for certain employés of the company.

After some argument between counsel, the District Justice decided to hear first the cases against Mr. Chapman.

Opening the cases against Mr. Chapman, Mr. Dixon said he had been managing director at a salary of £1,500 a year, with special expenses Subject to any special directions from the directors of the company, he was given carte blanche in the control and conduct of the company's affairs, for which certain materials were imported free of duty on licence. The kernel of the evasion that took place was that licences were issued for the importation of so many gross yards of unfinished lace braid, but much more was imported on invoices made out for so many gross. Without mention of the word yards, the word "gross" meant nothing, because it might be gross miles or gross inches. Millions of yards of this material had been imported in excess of the amount for which licences had been issued. Counsel mentioned a letter which defendant sent to a Belgian firm, stating they had been told very plainly that no lengths were to be stated in the invoices, and that by so doing they had caused "endless trouble and annoyance." A request was made for an invoice with lengths crossed out.

After hearing evidence as to procedure governing the issue of licences and method of clearing the Customs, the Court adjourned until to-day.

CENTRAL BANK BILL

LABOUR AMENDMENTS

The Labour Party will make a further effort in the Seanad to amend the Central Bank Bill. Ten amendments for the Committee stage have been tabled by Labour Senators.

An amendment to Clause 6, tabled by Senators Foran and Campbell, is designed to ensure that the primary purpose of the Bank will be "the safeguarding of the integrity of the currency, and ensuring that currency and credit shall be issued in correct equation to the economic needs of maximum production and full employment."

Another amendment seeks to provide facilities for co-operative societies to issue tallies exchangeable between their own members or between their members and the members of another co-operative society, while a third amendment proposes to remove the statutory obligation to maintain an exchange rate with Great Britain on the basis of parity.

An effort also will be made to remove the obligation of appointing as directors of the Bank the nominees of the commercial banks, and to prohibit the payment of additional fees to Civil Service directors who are paid whole time salaries from public funds.

TEA ON THE RATION BOOK

Although people have been crowding grocers' shops and impeding business for the past few days to re-register for their tea ration, shopkeepers believe that less than 75 per cent. will have come forward by to-day, when tea comes on the ration book under letter G. The stragglers, they prophesy, will not be dealt with for another week. Retailers expect no hitch in the scheme once the re-registering is complete, but, while welcoming the idea, complain that the Government's decision to change over to the book has come at a very inappropriate time. "At present we are wrestling with butter and sugar rationing, and now we have to deal with tea. If tea had not been put on the book until the middle of this month it would not have been quite so bad, as by that time the rationing of these other two commodities would be running according to plan," an Irish Times reporter was told.

Sugar rationing is providing grocers with probably their biggest headache. The profit is so small after the sugar has been bought, packed into small quantities and retailed that some merchants are inclined to tell the Government to keep their sugar and their sugar coupons.

TURF FOR THE POOR

Depôts from which poor families can secure winter supplies of turf and other fuel at graduated prices will be set up in Dublin, Cork and other areas within a few days after the re-assembly of the Dail, on the 14th inst. In Dublin the Commissioners for the Board of Assistance will have charge of the scheme, and a Government contribution will be available to meet the cost.

ITALIANS IN BELFAST

3 MONTHS SENTENCE

SALVA T. FUSCO, an elderly Italian woman, and Annina Antonio Aprile, aged eighteen, were sentenced at the Belfast Police Court yesterday by Mr. W. F. McCoy, R.M., to three months' imprisonment each, with a fine of £15 each, for having contravened the Aliens Order.

A constable said that the women lived together in a house in Cliftonville road, and, when he called on August 19 both were absent, but Mrs. Fusco returned in a taxi-cab at midnight, and explained that she had been unable to get a seat in a tramcar.

Mr. McCoy said that Mrs. Fusco had been in Northern Ireland for 28 years, and had not been naturalised. Northern Ireland was at war with Germany and Italy, yet they found this woman living in complete freedom, except for the restriction that she should be in her house between certain hours.

He fixed bail, pending an appeal, but refused to release the women.

After sentence had been passed, a son of Mrs. Fusco's sprang to his feet and shouted to the magistrate: "You took my father, but you won't take my mother."

Mr. McCoy ordered him to be bound over for a year.

The magistrate subsequently called the women before him and removed the fine, stating that, under an Order in Council made subsequent to the Aliens' Restriction Act, he had no power to impose both fine and imprisonment.

STORY OF GUN DUEL

TREASON CHARGES

A policeman sat in the Belfast Court yesterday with a shot-gun across his knee when three men were charged with treason felony, the sequel to a revolver duel with detectives in a house in Crumlin road, Belfast, on September 10. The men are John S. Graham, Antrim road, Belfast; David Fleming (alias Henry McCormick, alias John E. Allen), of Tullig, Cahir, Co. Tipperary, and Sean Dynan, Crumlin road, Belfast.

The men are also charged with possession of arms with intent to endanger life, and Graham and Fleming are charged with shooting at members of the Royal Ulster Constabulary with intent to kill.

Mr. R. J. Saeldon, prosecuting, said that the police, after getting into Dynan's house on September 10, were fired on from the landing. Graham and Fleming surrendered after a large number of shots had been exchanged. The police found a brick cache in the house, in which were a duplicator, two typewriters, a broadcasting apparatus and a quantity of subversive literature. Dynan was not there at the time, as he had been detained already.

Sergeant R. Gray said that he, with other police officers, burst in the door of Dynan's house, and on the stairs they saw Fleming with a revolver. Fleming fired, and the police returned the fire. After more shots had been exchanged a woman walked down the stairs, and, after more firing and a short delay, Fleming and Graham came down. Witness found a revolver on the landing. It had been fired. He found two other revolvers and an automatic pistol in a room, all loaded. He also found a quantity of ammunition.

Detective Inspector Moffatt said that, after taking Dynan into custody at the Mater Hospital, they raided Dynan's house. After the raid he found in Graham's possession notes about the "Belfast Brigade" and "G.H.Q., Dublin."

The men were put back to the City Commission, which sits on November 24 next.

U.S. ANTI-INFLATION

WASHINGTON, Friday. — The Joint Committee of the Senate and the House of Representatives have agreed on a compromise version of the anti-inflation legislation. Under the terms approved by the Committee, the President would be authorised to act before November 1 to stabilise prices, wages and salaries at the levels ruling on September 15 as far as practicable.

The House accepted the Senate compromise version of farm price control, directing the President to lift ceilings where they failed to reflect growers' increased labour and other costs since January 1, 1941. Later both Houses passed the Bill in its final form.—(Reuter.)

UNEMPLOYMENT BOOKS

The Minister for Industry and Commerce calls the attention of employers and insured contributors to the fact that the unemployment books for the 1941-42 insurance year cease to be current after the 4th inst., and must be exchanged for new books during the week ending on the 10th inst. Any information required in connection with the exchange may be obtained from the nearest Employment Exchange or branch employment office of the Department.

CAVAN SHOOTING

On the application of Supt. Bradley, the inquest at Cavan Hospital on Detective-Officer Walsh (42), shot when gardai raided a house at Ballyjamesduff for a wanted man, was adjourned pending further inquiries.

Mr. C. D. Howe, Canadian Minister of Munitions and Supply, was received in audience by the King at Buckingham Palace yesterday.

NEW PROSPECTING METHODS

MINERALS IN AVOCA

NEW methods of locating mineral deposits by the use of magnetic and electric equipment are being used in the Wicklow hills. The exploration is being carried out by the Geological Survey, and it is the first time this work has been done for national survey purposes.

The electric and magnetic properties of minerals which may be several hundred feet under the earth are availed of to establish their presence, and the records made on the apparatus indicate not only the presence of deposits, but also their nature and their depth.

Though even very modern encyclopedias have no entry under the heading "Geo-physics," still its methods have been coming into use in commercial mineral and oil prospecting in the last twenty years. A gold mine in Sweden, now the largest in Europe, was revealed by its methods, and they have also been used in prospecting for oil in America and the Middle East and for various minerals in South Africa, Australia and Canada.

Locating minerals—1942 method—as used in Co. Wicklow.

This new branch of its work was begun by the Irish Geological Survey about a year ago. One of the two workers who have been trained in its methods is a geologist, and the other is a physicist lent by the Emergency Research Bureau. The present director of the Geological Survey, Mr. D. W. Bishopp, has also had geo-physical experience in mining work in South Africa.

The present operations under the new methods are centred around the Vale of Avoca. Across this valley runs a reef about twelve miles long, with a varied selection of minerals, including iron, copper, lead, zinc and silver ores occurring at different depths and running in different directions. Though these deposits have been explored by sporadic mining during the past 200 years, there are many unsolved problems connected with their location. Within the last few months, however, the geo-physical survey has given valuable information, and, it is expected, will continue to give valuable information for the future mining development of the Avoca region.

MR. MYRON TAYLOR

"POST-WAR ORDER"

RUMOUR

Mr. Myron Taylor, during his recent visit to the Vatican, is reported to have placed before the Pope plans for post-war Europe prepared by the United States and Britain, says the Rome Correspondent of the Swiss Die Tat. This explanation, he says, emanates from Vatican quarters, but he himself has been unable to verify the report.

Apparently the United States and Britain concluded that the Atlantic Charter did not provide sufficient enlightenment on the United Nations' plans for post-war Europe, he adds. A new statement is expected to be issued giving details of a plan for post-war world order, and particularly for Europe, in the event of an Allied victory. Before making such a declaration the Allies wished for the Vatican's views.—(Reuter.)

The Press Association Diplomatic Correspondent says:—Mr. Myron Taylor is now reported to have stated that he is to visit Britain. Since there are some 20,000,000 Roman Catholics in the United States, it seems natural that some steps should be taken to convey their views to the Vatican City.

SUGAR COUPONS

The September sugar coupons marked 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 (and not 5, 6, 7 and 8, as previously stated) have been cancelled in respect of sugar previously supplied. These should be detached by licensed sugar retailers from the registration page of each of their customers and sent to the Department of Supplies, together with Form S 60 completed. These forms can be obtained from any post office or the Government Publications Sale Office, College street, Dublin.

DUBLIN ARRESTS

Two men were arrested by the police in the Dublin Bespoke Clothing Company's premises, Wellington quay, Dublin, late last night, when they were found removing bales of clothing materials. The men had a horse and cart outside the premises. The vehicle was laden with bales when they were arrested. The men were discovered by a Civic Guard on patrol duty.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S RETURN

FACES AN ANGRY PRESS

WASHINGTON, Friday. — President Roosevelt returned to work to find Congress members and newspaper correspondents alike condemning the two-weeks' news ban of his tour.

U.S. Government authorities at a west coast city disclosed that nearly 30,000 copies of an industrial weekly publication were destroyed on September 24 because they headlined Mr. Roosevelt's "secret" visit to a local aircraft plant. Senator Taft said that he saw no reason why, the day after the President had been at a place, the newspapers could not publish that he had been there.

Opposition over the censorship was apparent yesterday at the Press conference, at which the President described his trip. The atmosphere grew tense when he asserted that certain elements of the Press were hurting the war effort. Part of the background exchanges between the President and reporters was a formal protest—left at the White House while Mr. Roosevelt was on his tour—by 35 correspondents. The protest complained that no reason had been given why they had been excluded from the trip, and that complete censorship until the President's return was "neither wise nor necessary," since thousands of people saw him on the way.—(Reuter.)

GOLD COAST LANDING

A U.S. ARMY DIVISION

ABOUT 20 ships, carrying United States troops and war material, arrived at Port Takoradi, on the Gold Coast, on Monday and Tuesday of this week, says German Radio quoting information "from a special source."

"An entire United States Army Division was landed," the announcer said, and "it is presumed that this will reinforce the Allied Army in Egypt, as supplies to Egypt are now being transferred via Fort Lamy, in French Equatorial Africa."—(Reuter.)

FRENCH MAN-POWER RECRUITMENT

M. LAVAL TELLS CABINET

M. Laval reported at a Cabinet meeting in Vichy yesterday on the results of his conversations in the past fortnight "aimed at speeding up the recruitment of manpower and facilitating the return of prisoners of war."

The Minister of Agriculture announced measures to speed up the gathering of essential foodstuffs, especially potatoes, and to improve the supply in the main centres

Berlin Radio said yesterday that one problem before the French Cabinet was assumed to have been defence measures to protect the African colonies, especially Dakar. The Wireless said: "The statement by an American senator that Dakar must be occupied, which became known in Vichy on Friday, increased the impression that Dakar was imminently threatened."

FRENCH SHIP SCUTTLED

ANOTHER CAPTURED

CAPE TOWN, Friday. — The 4,391 tons Vichy freighter, Admiral Pierre, attempting to escape from Madagascar, scuttled herself when intercepted by the Royal Navy, it was officially disclosed to-day.

Another Vichy ship, the 1,559-ton merchantman, Marechal Gallieni, was captured and taken to a South African port.

The Admiral Pierre was formerly the Greek steamer Yiannis, a Glasgow-built ship. Her officers and crew were picked up by a ship of the Navy.

The Marechal Gallieni was registered at the British-held naval base of Diego Suarez, in Northern Madagascar.—(Reuter.)

HOUSE OF LORDS BOMB

AUTHORITIES PUZZLED

The police recently found a curious object, resembling a bomb, near the Chancellor's gate in the House of Lords. It was taken to the Civil Defence headquarters at Westminster, where it was examined by experts.

It proved to be a 3-inch Stokes French mortar bomb, dating from the last war. The authorities are now wondering how it came to be deposited near the Chancellor's gate.

AMERICAN WAR CASUALTIES

WASHINGTON, Friday.—American casualties in the navy, marines and coastguards since Pearl Harbour total 14,464 dead, wounded and missing. The latest list showed that from September 7 to 21, casualties were 162 dead, 67 wounded and 701 missing. Since December 7 last year (the date of Pearl Harbour) navy casualties have been 3,698 dead, 931 wounded and 7,266 missing; those of the marine corps 370 dead, 294 wounded and 1,864 missing, and those of the coastguard service 31 dead, 7 wounded and 3 missing.—(Reuter.)

HOLIDAY FOR THE ARMY

To mark his appreciation of the three months' strenuous exercises which have just been concluded by the Defence Forces, the Minister for Defence has asked that the troops be given a special holiday, and it has been decided to fix Monday, October 5th, as a special holiday. In an Order of the Day the Chief of Staff praises the way all ranks acquitted themselves, often under most trying and difficult conditions, and conveys the congratulations of the Minister for Defence to all ranks. "From first to last it has been evident," says Lieutenant-General McKenna, "that much progress has been made in raising the standard of fitness, endurance, alertness and training."

SMALLER CHURCH POPULATION

DR. HARVEY'S VIEWS

THE amalgamation of parishes, due to a reduction in the number of parishioners, was dealt with by the Right Rev. T. A. Harvey, Bishop of Cashel and Waterford, at the annual Synod of Cashel and Emly, held in Cashel yesterday.

It was urged by some, he said, to provide ministers in accordance with the new distribution of their Church population. There was, however, no shortage of man-power in the Church. The Divinity School of Dublin University turned out many more candidates for the ministry than could be absorbed, and many had been forced to turn their eyes elsewhere. These candidates were of the highest type, physically and intellectually. It was in the North that Church man-power was most needed. Money power was relatively greater in the South. The diocesan stipend funds, unless consolidated into one general fund, would not enrich the Church as a whole, and until this was done, money would not be conserved by amalgamations. In many cases the number of families had dwindled and young people were emigrating. Their rural birth-rate did not keep pace with losses by death and emigration, and their low birth-rate was due to late marriages. Out of every thousand of the population, only 73 women up to the age of 45 were married. More adequate remuneration for agriculture might make earlier marriages possible, but the greatest impediment to marriage at a reproductive age would remain so long as the prospective heir to a farm had to wait for his father's death before taking a wife. He thought that on the larger farms an extra house might be provided for the heir to make a home. The country, he said, was full of bachelors in a position to marry. The gravity of the situation, from our point of view, said Dr. Harvey, is proved by the fact that in ten years Protestants lost nearly one-quarter of their young population.

SALES OF TEA

MANY CHARGES IN DUBLIN

An allegation that tea was being offered for sale at £1 per pound was contained in a charge heard before Senior Justice Hannan, in the Dublin District Court yesterday. There were a number of charges of contravening the Emergency Order Regulations, and they were adjourned until Monday and Wednesday next.

Matthew O'Brien, grocer and publican, Clonbullogue, Co. Offaly, was formally charged with selling tea at 20s. per pound.

John Doran, breadvan driver, High street, Tullamore, was charged with unlawfully carrying on business of selling tea at 15s. to 19s. 6d. per pound.

Thomas Gallivan, James's street, Dublin, publican, also was charged with unlawfully inviting an officer of the Department of Supplies to buy tea at 18s. a pound; and Aidan Fortune, publican, Thomas street, Dublin, was charged with aiding and abetting Gallivan to sell tea at 17s. 6d. a pound.

Edmund Fitzpatrick, Oriel Bar, Anne street, Dundalk, was charged with unlawfully carrying on the business of wholesale tea merchant without being registered as such.

OTHER CHARGES

Arnold Graham Sutton, Woodlawn Park, Churchtown road, Dundrum, garage proprietor, was charged with selling to Ernest Cullen forty gallons of petrol without requiring the production of a coupon licence.

Ernest Cullen, 12 North Anne street, Dublin, haulage contractor, was charged with, not being a dealer, purchasing the petrol without producing the coupon licence.

Andrew J. Doyle, a broker, Clontarf road, Dublin, and Joseph Mateer, Bushfield House, Philipsburgh avenue, were charged with offering for sale twelve bicycle tubes at 6s. 6d. each.

In all the cases defendants were remanded on bail.

LORD MAYORALTY CRUX

LABOUR STATEMENT

The following statement was issued by the Municipal Group of the Irish Labour Party last night:

"Among many other matters discussed at to-night's meeting of the Dublin Municipal Labour Group was the question of the Mayoral election. It was decided to refer the Minister for Local Government and Public Health to his letter of the 26th August to the City Manager, wherein he said 'a quarterly meeting of the City Council is required by law to be held at noon on the tenth day after the 19th August, and the first business at that meeting must be the election of a Lord Mayor'; and to his letter of the 16th September repeating the foregoing statement, and adding that 'the matter is one for the decision of the City Council.' The Minister's attention is further directed to the fact that the City Council is being prevented from discussing or taking a decision on the issue because of the attitude of Alderman Doyle in ruling all reference to the subject out of order

"In view of such flagrant breach of ordinary democratic procedure, the Minister is being requested to give a clear and definite direction to the meeting of the City Council on Monday next."

TULLAMORE INQUIRY

In a letter conveying the result of the sworn inquiry into the circumstances connected with the death of Mrs. McCann, Coolagarry, Offaly, the Local Government Department informed the Secretary of Offaly Board of Health that the Minister did not feel called upon to reprimand Dr. Peter McGuinness, local dispensary medical officer. It was added that the midwife, Mrs. Scally, attended the case with all reasonable speed. Allegations against the Department, made by members of the former Board of Health in regard to midwives' remuneration, were described as unwarranted.

The bodies of 22 people, including 13 women, were recovered yesterday from the burned wreckage of the American Army transport 'plane which crashed on Thursday in the mountains north-west of Coamo, a telegram from San Juan, Porto Rico, announces.

FIERCE BATTLE IN DESERT MINEFIELD

ITALIANS DRIVEN FROM TWO STRONGHOLDS

THE British attack in the central sector of El Alamein front continued yesterday. It was being carried out with powerful artillery and bomber support and heavy tank cover, cables Reuter's correspondent with the British Eighth Army.

The attack was made against one of the Axis strongest positions, from which the Afrika Korps made its abortive thrust a month ago. The battlefield is in a maze of British and Axis minefields. German reaction to the attack has taken the form of dive-bombing attacks on British infantry and artillery fire on a considerable scale.

Advancing over desert, strewn with mines, barbed wire, and countless booby traps, the correspondent says, the Eighth Army have driven the Italians out of two strongholds in the Deriel Manassib area, south of the Ruweisat Ridge. Latest reports from General Montgomery's Headquarters indicate that fierce fighting was raging on Thursday for other Axis positions. Forty hours after the start of the attack the battle showed no signs of dying down. Objectives already gained by the Eighth Army lie on the lip of the depression—an important look-out post in the direction of El Hemeimat. El Hemeimat is still held by the Germans.

At least one Axis counter-attack on the newly-won positions has been repulsed with very light British losses. Designed to straighten the British line on the El Alamein sector, the British assault has already resulted in considerable improvement of the Allies' positions, though the value of the ground wrested from the enemy should not be over-estimated. Before the new British positions were established there was a good deal of hand-to-hand fighting, in which the seasoned troops of the Eighth Army showed to advantage. Observers are wondering if the "limited" British attack is in preparation for bigger things.

General Montgomery, when he pinned the Victoria Cross on the breast of Sergeant Keith Elliott, of the New Zealand Forces, a few miles from the front line, promised the New Zealanders an important part in the "next round."

POSITIONS CARRIED

When the attack was opened, a message sent out on Thursday stated that Italian infantry resisted it from entrenched positions overlooking folds of wire and intricate booby traps. As British infantry moved towards the lip of the depression they had to exercise the most painstaking care, but before nightfall two strong Axis positions on the northern side of the depression were in British hands. At dusk the Italians counter-attacked, but were beaten off, with only slight casualties to the Eighth Army. Fighting for other positions has been fiercer. It had been going on all through Thursday morning after a night of artillery harassing by both sides, with Royal Air Force bombers pounding the Axis lines.

Royal Air Force Kittyhawk fighters, without loss to themselves, shot down six Stuka dive-bombers about to attack British troops advancing in the desert, says Reuter. They probably destroyed, or at least damaged, as many again in one of the most successful Allied air engagements in recent weeks. One of the Royal Air Force flight commanders, who himself accounted for three enemy 'planes, saw six Stukas on fire in the air at the same time.

FLENSBURG BOMBED

British air raids on Germany were resumed on Thursday night.

"The submarine yards at Flensburg and other objectives on the Baltic coast of Germany were attacked by our bombers," said an Air Ministry communiqué. "Coastal Command aircraft attacked enemy shipping off the Dutch coast. Seventeen of our bombers are missing."

Deutschlandsender, the big Berlin long-wave station, went off the air shortly before 9 o'clock last night, says a Reuter message, which adds that other long-wave transmissions followed suit for technical reasons.

U.S. SUBMARINE TOLL

SINKINGS IN PACIFIC

AN American submarine operating in the Western Pacific, has sunk five Japanese ships, probably sank two more and damaged another, reports Reuter's Washington Correspondent, quoting a United States Navy communiqué, yesterday. The vessels sunk were a large seaplane tender, a large cargo and passenger ship, a large freighter and two medium cargo ships.

Two medium cargo ships were damaged and probably sunk, and one large tanker was damaged. These successes raise the total of Japanese ships successfully attacked by U.S. submarines to 115, of which 74 were sunk, 19 probably sunk, and 22 damaged

IN THE ALEUTIANS

Another Navy Department announcement says that a Japanese submarine and a transport have been damaged and probably sunk in the Aleutian Islands. Two other transports were damaged and five Japanese Zero fighters were shot down. One American pursuit 'plane was lost.

The communiqué states that in the North Pacific on September 27 Army Liberator bombers dropped bombs on Japanese ships and shore installations on Kiska. One Zero fighter was shot down. Damage to bomb objectives could not be determined. All the raiding 'planes returned. The same day, near the island of Attu, three army bombers attacked a transport, escorted by a destroyer. The transport, when last seen, had stopped. During September 28 a strong force of army bombers, escorted by pursuit craft, again bombed Japanese ships and buildings on Kiska. Zero fighters and A.-A. batteries on the surface vessels attempted to repel this attack.

MR. WILLKIE IN CHINA

5,000 MILES FLIGHT

CHUNGKING, Friday. — Mr. Wendell Willkie, President Roosevelt's personal envoy, arrived in Chungking to-day after his 5,000-mile air journey from Moscow.

Passing close to the Japanese air bases in Shansi, he landed at Chengtu, 50 miles west of Chungking, flying on later to the war-time capital. The Chinese authorities maintained the utmost secrecy about his flight. Japanese 'planes scoured the skies for several days, causing air raid alerts all over the interior. The 'plane taking him on the final stage of his trip was piloted by a crack Chinese flyer, Moon Ching, of the China National Aviation Corporation.

"I came to China to know the facts about your war," he said at the airport.—(Reuter.)

A report from La Linea last night said that the Swedish liners, Carmela, Formosa and Eros, sailing under the flag of the International Red Cross, entered Gibraltar Harbour, yesterday. — (Associated Press.)

The Home Maker

All through the centuries woman has been the home maker, and by her unselfish and loving care has made it a haven of peace for her husband and family. From early morning until late at night she plans and works for the well-being of her loved ones and gets her reward in their happiness.

But what will happen if the home is suddenly deprived of the breadwinner? Unless adequate provision has been made for the future of the wife and children they may then be unable to continue living in the home they have built up together and may even be reduced to poverty.

You owe it to your wife and family to see that they will be able to live in comfort if you should be taken from them, and the safest and most economical way to ensure this is through Life Assurance.

Cameron For the Irish Cambridgeshire

An attractive programme, with the Irish Cambridgeshire as centrepiece, awaits discussion at the Curragh this afternoon. Twenty-seven runners have been declared for the big event, which has a very open appearance. Last year's winner, Mill Boy, and The Abbot of Hainault, second to him on that occasion, again will be in the field, and will have to be reckoned with. Cameron, with 10st. 4lb. to carry, is set a stiff task, and may not be as well fancied as his stable companion, Apocalypse. Foam Crest, So Lovely and Grand Inquisitor have much to recommend them, and the consistent Sunny Star is another likely to make a bold bid. The selection is Cameron, who may be troubled by So Lovely. Selections:—

Mountjoy Plate—Cora Koosh.
Loughbrown Plate—Marquee.
National Produce Stakes—Clodagh Rose.
Irish Cambridgeshire—Cameron.
Royal Whip—Anniversary.
Juvenile Plate—Brehon Law.
Conyngham Handicap—Balbriggan

Curragh Selections — 2.0, Hortland; 2.30, Queen's Eyot; 3.0, Clodagh Rose; 3.30, Dunseverick 1, Grand Inquisitor 2, So Lovely 3; 4.0, Sword Knot; 4.30, Pontifex; 5.0, Poolfix.

Tote Double on fourth and sixth races.

GOOD YEAR REPORTED BY I.A.B.A

The annual Congress of the Irish Amateur Boxing Association was held last night, with Mr. J. J. Irwin presiding, in the absence of the President, Chief Superintendent P. J. Carroll.

The hon. treasurer reported a profit of £12 on the year's working, against a loss of £242 the previous year, but this loss had included a special donation of £200 to the Stadium Fund which did not recur.

Honorary officers were elected as follows:—President, Chief Superintendent P. J. Carroll; vice-president, J. J. Irwin; hon. treasurer, Rev. J. McLoughlin; hon. secretary, P. J. Kilcullen; hon. registrar, C. Gallagher. Representatives to Central Council: Garda F. J. Cooper, Garda J. J. Healy, Comdt. D. V. Horgan, Sergeant E. Kennedy, Comdt. J. J. Walsh, W. Wright.

A motion to limit the tenure of office by the honorary officials to three years was defeated, but clubs were recommended that where suitable candidates were available they should be put forward.

An Ulster motion that winners and runners-up in any junior championships be debarred from competing in juvenile championships was passed.

It was decided that an individual or club suspended, expelled, or otherwise aggrieved, shall have the right of appeal to the Central Council.

Fees in regard to charity tournaments were reduced.

The reports from the Provincial Councils showed a satisfactory state of affairs in the prevailing circumstances. Ulster reported the best year for many seasons, while Leinster showed an increase of seven clubs, and a credit balance of £16, after donating £100 to the Stadium Fund. Connaught and Munster were badly hit by transport difficulties, but Connaught, nevertheless, had a better financial return than in the two previous years, with £14 to credit, while Munster broke level apart from a debt of £8 to the Central Council.

The following national fixtures were made at the Central Council, I.A.B.A. meeting yesterday:—November 26-28—Irish Junior Championships. March 4-6—Irish Senior Championships. December 5 (1942)—Army v. Rest of Ireland. February 6—Central Council Tournament. The Irish Juvenile Championships will be held on a date to be arranged after Easter. November 7—Leinster Provincial Council Tournament.

Gerald Manly Hopkins

By Patrick Kavanagh.

Gerald Manly Hopkins: Priest and Poet. By John Pick. Oxford University Press. (London: Milford.) 8/6 net.

Another study of the famous Victorian poet who was a Jesuit, by a commentator who has set himself to prove that Hopkins was really a true priest in spite of the fact that he indulged in the dreadful trade of verse. In one way this was necessary, for all the other modern writers on Hopkins tried to prove that he was a true poet in spite of his being a Jesuit priest. People who try to prove things about a poet are no friends of the poetry. Another thing—we have this cowardly apology for the poet, as in the case of Hopkins that he was a good priest, in the case of Yeats that he was a sound business head. As if—the implication is—the poet were a creature apart, not respectable and needing to be defended in the convention of commerce. Poetry is a side issue; it is only one of the many facets of the soul and when it becomes the whole soul then it is worthless. A "whole-time poet"—and I believe there are some in this country—is like a man who made breathing his main interest and preoccupation. The same applies to all the arts.

The ground covered by Dr. Pick has been heavily trodden before and practically the same path is taken by him as by Father G. F. Lahey, S.J., also in an Oxford University publication. He gives us once again the story of Hopkins' early years, the Anglican movement and Hopkins' conversion to Catholicism. All of which is the futile labour of scholarship. In the end he does succeed in giving us the picture of a pious priest of terrible intensity, strong imperialist, anti-Irish feelings, but somehow a little smug.

Sprung Rhythm

How great a poet was Hopkins? Father D'Arcy, who contributes a foreword, claims that he "must be ranked amongst the first English-speaking poets of the nineteenth century and perhaps of any century." "Of any century" is pure nonsense. Hopkins's chief claim to fame is his re-discovery of "sprung rhythm." In this nervous mould it was, and is, impossible for a poet to spread out. It is a constricted form that forces thought deep down as into a narrow tunnel where the sharp rocks project from the sides.

I am willing to admit that there is something in the Rule of St. Ignatius that corresponds to the form and temper of Hopkins's verse. The Jesuit check-rein on violent passions and the intellectual power guided and controlled along the narrow way. The final result of this book is a sort of confusion in the mind—the confusion that arises from a highly scrupulous attitude to things which was the attitude of Hopkins, it seems. The same disservice could be performed for any other poet by attempting to relate out of perspective a natural thing like his writing to his daily round in life. But, as I have said, the case of Hopkins was somewhat different. The best, the only, commentary on a poet is his poetry. What we want is more readers of the poetry and less of the biographies and commentaries.

BOOKS OF THE WEEK

Forty-six Years of Soldiering

The Fire of Life. By General Sir George de S. Barrow. London: Hutchinson. 18/- net.

General Barrow was a soldier for forty-six years, and this is the story of his soldiering. His is the sort of biography that has been done before and done badly. In this case it is done well; and even though the greater part of the book deals with personal experiences, some trivial, some important, the author succeeds in drawing one on from chapter to chapter even when one has sworn that bed must be the order after the very next page—and that is surely as great a feat as any author could wish to perform.

Sir George started in the Connaught Rangers, but his greatest attachment seems to have been for his Scinde Horse. He spent most of his life in India, China, Palestine, Syria and other stations abroad, and in his travels he met many interesting people.

There are twenty-four chapters, so that no summary even can be attempted in this review. The writer, however, found the story of the aftermath of the Boxer rising and the return of order to Pekin a particularly fascinating section. As police chief there General Barrow saw that some of the European soldiers were almost as villainous as the Boxers.

Of the Chinese he writes: "They are mostly hard-working, frugal, thrifty, simple-minded, cheery, patient and law-abiding folk. There are probably fewer crooks among the 450 million Chinese than would be found among a similar number of people drawn from any other portion of the planet."

The Braganzas of Brazil

Amazon Throne. By Bertita Harding. London: Harrap. 12/6 net.

Bertita Harding has made a good choice for the subject of her latest work; for the Braganzas of Brazil are as romantic a family as any chronicler could desire. She follows their story from the arrival of the Portuguese Royal Family in their new kingdom, after Napoleon had driven them out of the old, to the foundation of the Republic at the end of the last century. The narrative, perhaps, is more anecdote than history; for, in the desire to give the personal values of the characters, the authoress has not clarified the context of world affairs. But the style is dramatic, whimsical and always interesting, and the reader who is prepared to forego the talents of a Gibbon for those of a Harding will not be disappointed. There are numerous pictures of the persons mentioned, which add, if any addition is needed, to the word-pictures of the writer.

Two Poems by Seumas O'Sullivan

"THIS IS THE HOUSE."

No. 2—THE PUNDIT'S HOUSE.

This is the pundit's house
Full of studied ease,
With flowers in serried order
Growing—not where they please,
But where he has set them
In hendecasyllabic rows;
Neat garden path and lodge gate
And guardian at the gate
To frown at common people,
And fawn upon the great.

CATULLUS XLVIII.

Dearest, did fate but grant me this,
At thy dear eyes to take my fill,
Numbers were vain to count my bliss
Tasting their honied sweetness, till
Joy like a harvest moon rose, golden-red,
Above that field of kisses harvested.

For Children

Told To St. Patrick. By Rosalie Procter. London: Jenkins. 5/- net.

This little book contains a series of New Testament stories, re-written in an up-to-date, simplified style, suitably interesting for small children, and, to make the book more interesting still, illustrated with a number of modern pictures. The print is large, the binding strong, and the paper remarkably good for these times.

Gardener of the Future

Spring Onions. By Duncan McGuffie. London: Faber. 7/6 net.

This book has a post-war aspect of considerable importance if the "back to the soil" movement in these islands continues. With the greater acreage under cultivation, the competition for early and timely fruit and vegetable production must intensify, while at the same time the consuming population of the cities will have decreased accordingly. Thus the "alive" market gardener and fruit-grower will have to keep his wits at the sharpest, and always be on the look-out to derive the utmost from his holding with the greatest expediency. Here is where Mr. McGuffie's book shines.

The author is a first-class business man by training, the while he has the authentic call of the land in his blood. Instead of taking up a first-class appointment in his father's firm while a young man, he chose to turn market gardener, and see if he could not gain the same monetary advantage through that more congenial occupation. So his book is nearly all hard thinking translated into harder work and careful organisation, with every experiment carefully verified on the spot. His career, so far, has given him experience of many sides of the land question: he has been both producer and vendor, so that his qualifications to teach are undoubted.

The maximum output of the land and well-planned mechanical work are some of his main points, for he is a great believer in mechanised farming. He tells his story wittily and with great interest, and, so far as his style is concerned, he will, if he continues as a writer of country subjects, make a serious name for himself as a gifted author.

Limerick Printing

Limerick Printers and Printing. Compiled by Robert Herbert. Limerick: City of Limerick Public Library. 2/6 net.

This book, the first part of a catalogue of the local collection in the Limerick Public Library, has been compiled by the librarian, and is the first catalogue of its kind to be issued by any Irish public library. The very fact of its publication is a sign that the city is prepared to take seriously its collection of local books; and that sign will be welcomed by all bibliophiles. The local libraries of the country, being in touch with local records and sources, must be relied upon for any satisfactory record of the publishing work done outside the capital—a record which is of no little importance in the literary history of the country. Not only has Limerick led the way, but it has led the way well. Mr. Herbert's compilation is careful, complete, and scholarly, and a credit to the city and authority which have sponsored it. The printing and production of the book are a tribute to modern Limerick publishing.

Heritage Undimmed. By Frank Stafford. A story of an old line of sea-going folks, with the real tang of the sea in every page. (Hurst and Blackett, 9/- net.)

A WOMAN IN TROUBLE

Muddy Complexion--Rheumatism--Overweight--Too Tired to Work

If this woman had taken a different remedy for each of her complaints, she would have been kept very busy!

In actual fact, she took only one medicine. And in six weeks she saw every one of her complaints fading away.

In a letter she says:—"Since I started taking Kruschen six weeks ago, my health has greatly improved. My complexion, which had a muddy appearance, is changed to a clear and healthy look. My rheumatism has almost gone. My weight two months ago was 11 st. 6 lbs., and yesterday when I was weighed by the same scales, I weighed 10 st. 8 lbs. This decrease has helped me wonderfully, for I don't feel half so tired, and am able to work better than I have done for months."
—(Miss) A.L.R.

Half the complaints that afflict humanity—from simply feeling "off colour" to acute rheumatism—can all be traced back to one root cause—internal sluggishness.

There is one sure, safe way to keep yourself regular inside—the "little daily dose" of Kruschen Salts. Kruschen is a scientific combination of six mineral salts which keep your eliminating organs in proper tune and so clear away the waste matter that clogs your system.

And Kruschen has a direct tonic influence upon the blood-stream, too, invigorating it so that it floods every fibre with tingling energy.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable of all Chemists. Price 1/9 per bottle.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Friday.—After a firm and active opening, the Steels led a recovery, but the Rails had to contend with considerable profit-taking. Steels recorded gains of 2 points or more, while the advances elsewhere were generally fractions, and most of the leaders closed at the best levels.

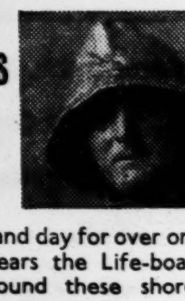
VIGILANCE that NEEDS YOUR HELP



Night and day for over one hundred years the Life-boatmen's vigil round these shores has been maintained.
This great humane service is one which all of us may feel proud to support.
The need for voluntary contributions persists from year to year and their continuance still depends upon you to-day. Send whatever you can.

FIRE-FIGHTING FILMS

A big gathering of members of the Dublin City Fire Brigade, as well as of the auxiliary fire fighting services, in the Central Fire Station, Tara street, last night, saw a vivid display of films, taken during raids in England, and how the various services were brought into play in fighting the outbreaks. The first film, actually taken during a recent raid in London, showed incendiary bombs falling and starting fires in residential quarters. A feature of the demonstration was the manner in which the district fire-watching and fire-fighting services quickly got to work to bring the outbreaks under control. In view of the steps that have been taken to organise fire-watching groups in various areas in the city, this display was of particular interest. Other films dealt with rescue services and first-aid work.

TYRE CHARGE DISMISSED

Michael McElherron, Mark lane, Mark street, Dublin, a garage proprietor, was charged in Dublin yesterday, before Senior District Justice Hannan, under the Emergency Powers Orders, that, on June 30th last, he offered one giant tyre for heavy motor vehicles for sale at £32 10/- to William Dempsey, an officer in the Department of Supplies. He was also charged with unlawfully offering for sale 300 bicycle tubes at a price of 5/6 each, being a price higher than that permitted by the Emergency Powers Orders.

The District Justice dismissed both charges.

ST. PHILIP'S CHURCH

Harvest Festival Services will be held in St. Philip's Parish Church, Temple road, Rathmines, to-morrow. The preacher at Morning Service will be the Rev. Dr. Luce, S.F., T.C.D., Chancellor of St. Patrick's, and at 7.15 p.m. the preacher will be the Archbishop of Dublin, D.D. The music will include "The Heavens are Telling" (Haydn), and the solo from the same oratorio, "In Splendour Bright." The soloist will be Mr. Geoffrey Quaile.

KINGSTOWN METHODISTS

The Rev S. J. Johnston will preach at the 11.30 Service in the Methodist Church, Kingstown, to-morrow. The soloist at the evening Service will be Mr. W. F. Weir, and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. A. Lockhart, B.A. On Monday there will be a Praise Service. The Chairman will be Mr. W. Bolton, and the address will be given by the Rev. W. T. Clarke.

G.N.R. STOCKS FORGE AHEAD

Busy conditions marked the close of the week on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, and, as usual, chief attention was paid to Irish Securities. Home Rails were again to the fore, and made further progress, but Government Funds inclined easier on profit-taking.

Second National Loan, Financial Agreement Loan, and 3½ p.c. National Security Loan all shed fractions, and 4½ p.c. Land Bonds shaded off to 116⅛; 3½ p.c. War Loan declined to 106 1/16.

In Banks, Hibernians gained several pence at 43/9, but Nationals relapsed to 41/4½. Guinness units enjoyed fresh support, and jumped a further 1/6 to 105/9. Power Deb. firmed up to 22/6.

There was strong buying of Great Northern Rails all day. The Ord. advanced 8/9 to 24½, the Pref. 25/- to 45½, and the Guaranteed 10/- to 58, but the Deb. gave way to 75. Great Southern Deb. was raised to 64.

Dublin Transport Ord. and Alliance Gas Ord. held their previous levels. Todd Burns Ord. hardened to 10/6. Associated Chocolate Deb. to 10, and Batchelor (Ireland) Ord. to 10/7½. Browne and Nolan Pref. and Carroll Pref. tended higher, but Salts (Ireland) Pref. shed pence at 17/6. Other Irish Industrials held up well.

Tobaccos were a shade easier, with B.A.T. Ord. 84/9 and Imperials 137/3. Bleachers Ord. slipped back to 7/- Shell Transport Ord. quoted 53/3, and Grand Central Rubber 12/10½.

STOCKBROKERS REPORT PERSISTENT DEMAND FOR EQUITIES

BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Stockbrokers report persistent demand for most of the reliable Industrial Equities. The buying appears to be of a purely investment character. Supplies are on the small side, so that an influx of buyers has a decided effect upon market values.

Reckitt and Sons, which now operates most closely with J. and J. Colman, has a dividend record second to none. Year after year three interims, each of 5 p.c., are paid on the Ord., followed by a final of 6½ p.c. and a cash bonus of 1½ p.c. Total distributions, therefore, amount to 22½ p.c. each year. At 100/- the yield is £4 10/- p.c. This great firm deals in all manner of household requisites.

BELFAST COMPANY

The interim dividend on Gallaher, Ltd., Ord. for 1942 is repeated at 7½ p.c. This is the Belfast tobacco firm. Dividend every year since 1937 has been 22½ p.c., plus a cash bonus of 5 p.c., each time to make 27½ p.c. The £1 units, around 122/6, offer a yield of £4 10/- p.c.

Imperial Tobaccos, despite their recent rise to 136/3, yield a gross return of £5 2/9 on the distribution of 17½ p.c., tax free, for the year to October, 1941. This company has, however, reduced its tax free distribution every year since 25 p.c. tax free was paid for 1938. The cut in distribution must be attributed to increased taxation.

The tendency is to base the price on a 15 p.c., tax free, dividend this year, at which the yield at 136/3 would be £4 8/- p.c. Should the distribution be maintained, there is room for improvement in "Imps."

MUREX DIVIDEND

Shareholders of Murex, Ltd., have good reason to congratulate themselves on their investment. For the sixth year in succession the distribution on the Ordinary capital is being made up to 20 p.c. by the payment of a final dividend of 10 p.c. and a bonus of 2½ p.c.

The company owns the patent rights of a special ore concentration and separation process, and it manufactures tungsten powder and other alloys. It works in close co-operation with Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., while it has acquired control or has substantial interests in a number of companies engaged in allied industries.

There is no wonder that its shares are closely held and are highly valued. Dealings have taken place this week at prices ranging from 97/6 to 98/9.

Rather a feature at the moment is the demand for Assam Dooars Tea £10 Ordinary shares, the price for which rose £3 yesterday to £33. This company is one of the aristocrats of the tea industry. In the last four years to December, 1941, dividends have been 30 p.c. each year, but in 1937 35 p.c. was paid. The price has been as high as 40⅛ this year and as low as 26½. The fluctuation is much heavier than customary and the market believes that a still better price is warranted.

RISE IN BREWERIES

London Stock markets yesterday finished the week on a cheerful note. The most active shares were Breweries, which continued to attract attention. Watney Def., on the attractive yield, were sought after, and gained another 9d. at 69/6. Guinness were up 1/- at 104/9, while Bass gained a similar amount at 158/3. Distillers also improved.

British Rail junior issues gained up to 10/-, with Great Western at 49½.

Stores made a good showing, and Textiles generally were a good market. In other directions, Richard Thomas, Tube Investment and United Steel all made progress.

Kaffirs generally were firm, and Oils were better where changed.

NOTICE OF CHARITABLE BEQUESTS.
SUSAN ALICE ANDERSON, late of Grace Dieu, Waterford, Spinster, Deceased.

NOTICE is hereby given that the abovenamed Testatrix, by her will, dated the 18th December, 1940, gave the following Charitable Legacies:—

£2,000 to the Church of Ireland Widows' and Orphans' Society, together with all Testatrix's clothing, including furs.
£2,000 to the Molyneux Asylum for the Blind, Dublin.
£250 to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for the County and City of Waterford.
£3,000 to the Representative Body of the Church of Ireland (incorporated under the name of the Representative Church Body) upon trust to invest the same and apply the income thereof for the benefit of the clergy of the Church of Ireland in the County and City of Waterford.
£500 to the Governors of the Claremont Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb, Dublin, known as the National Association for Promoting the Education of the Deaf and Dumb Poor of Ireland.

The above legacies are subject to a provision in the said will, that, if the payment of all legacies given by said will, together with all the duties thereon, would leave a net residue of Testatrix's "free" estate of less than £10,000 then a moiety only of the said legacies should be immediately payable, the other moiety of said legacies to outstand until the death of the life tenant of the said residue.

Testatrix died on 19th December, 1941, and Probate of her will was on 19th September, 1942, granted forth of the Waterford District Probate Registry to Major Robert John Henry Carew, of Ballinamona Park, Waterford, and Sir Robert Joshua Paul, Baronet, of Ballyglan, Waterford, the Executors therein named.

IRISH FILM SOCIETY

The seventh season of the Irish Film Society will open next Saturday at the Classic Cinema, Terenure, with a showing of the famous French film, "Le Roi S'Amuse." Directed by Pierre Colombier, this picture is a particularly brilliant piece of satire, which directs its shafts of wit against royalty, democracy, political jobbery, snobbery and other human foibles with equal impartiality. The burlesque, however, is done with true Gallic lightness. A leading part is played by Raimu. In support will be Len Lye's "When the Pie was Opened" and Paul Rotha's "Our School."

Maritime Tradition

According to a report from Ottawa, Canada is developing a consciousness of her power and potentialities as a maritime nation, not only to help in the transport of food and material to the fighting areas, but also to become an important factor in the expansion of her world trade after the war. Canada's world trade, it is said, will necessitate an ever-expanding merchant navy, and a new breed of hardy sailors is being trained to man her ships. Attention is being called to the reputation that was enjoyed by the wooden ships of Canada in the days before steam and steel. In Ireland also the possibility of creating an adequate independent merchant service has been discussed vigorously since the war started. There has been rather unfair criticism of the Government for having failed to foresee that there would be a war that would interrupt communications so seriously and for having failed to have ships in reserve to bring the necessities of life and trade to these shores. Since the war started there has been an increasing national interest in the sea and in seamen, one small evidence of this being the enthusiasm displayed over the Maritime Inscription when it appears in military parades. Ireland has not a maritime tradition like England or Norway or Greece. Nevertheless, there are parts of the country, such as East Antrim and South Cork, which for generations have bred a race of sea-going men. In the West there are brave, if not very industrious, fishermen. In Dublin there is a shipping record which goes back almost to the time of the Danes. The vessels which inaugurated the Spanish trade of the Peninsular and Oriental line were chartered from a Dublin firm, and one of the most historic trips across the Atlantic was that of the Dublin Steampacket Company's Royal William in 1838, the little cross-Channel trader being so overloaded with coal for the journey that passengers could lean over the side and wash their hands in the sea. Ireland can man her own mercantile marine, but the extent to which such a service may be rationally developed depends upon the amount of trade, not the number of sailors, that is available. How many ships will Ireland be able to employ usefully in trading after the war? With a great deal of the belligerent nations' vessels being used for the transport of troops and munitions it is natural that there should be a world-wide demand for more ships; but when the war ends, when the transports are available for peace-time trading, when the sinkings cease and the shipyards continue to produce, for some months at least, at the accelerated war-time rate, there very probably will be more ships than can be used. After the last war the shipping industry experienced the worst depression in its history. In 1922 no less than 11,000,000 gross tons of shipping was idle for want of employment. If Ireland's good ships are not to go to waste, it is important that the expansion of our merchant navy should be limited by the trading prospects of the future. We have no equivalent in bulk to the granaries of Canada, high with wheat that a hungry world desires. Our export trade requires cross-Channel instead of trans-Atlantic vessels. That does not mean that we should surrender all claim to a share in maritime trading on the wider oceans. If we really want deep sea vessels they should be available in course of time at bargain prices.

Tea Rations

Tea comes under the coupon rationing system in Eire to-day. It has been rationed for some time past, as every housewife knows to her cost; but to-day, for the first time, official coupons will be required for its purchase, and yet another complication will be added to the already difficult lot of the ordinary citizen. The tea ration in Eire is almost absurdly small. This country always has been among the greatest consumers of tea in the world, and, for its size, probably drank more tea per capita than any other country in Europe, with the possible exception of Russia. For many months now the Irish people have been existing on a ration of half an ounce per week; yet there seems to be no appreciable shortage in the average household. The reason is, of course, that the "black market" is flourishing. In spite of the drastic rationing system in Northern Ireland fairly substantial quantities of tea continue to make their mysterious way across the border; and there can be very little doubt that far-seeing, but unscrupulous people in the twenty-six counties have been hoarding up large stocks since the beginning of the war. The fact is that, in many parts of the country, tea can be bought readily—at a price. In some cases the price is as much as half a crown an ounce—at the rate of forty shillings a pound; and we are informed that the profiteers who sell at this price have little difficulty in the disposal of their supplies. Day after day one reads of prosecutions in the courts against traders who are selling tea at the rate of twenty shillings a pound; and, although in some cases the District Justices deal harshly with the offenders, in others merely a nominal fine is imposed. In this country tea must be regarded as an essential commodity, particularly in the country districts. The Irish people as a whole never have taken kindly to coffee, and Mr. de Valera's suggestion some years ago that tea might be replaced by a light beer met with no response. Our people must have their "nice cup of tea," and evidently are prepared to pay almost any price for it. In these circumstances, the District Justices ought to enforce the law with the utmost rigour. There is no excuse for profiteering in tea; but, so long as the delinquents get off with a fine of a few shillings, or even of a few pounds, the nefarious traffic will continue.

DUBLIN PAINTERS

EFFECTS OF POETRY

THERE is a good percentage of works marked with what, for want of a better word, one can only call poetry in paint at the Dublin Painters' annual exhibition, which was opened by Mr. Micheal MacLiammoir at the Gallery, 7 St. Stephen's Green, on Thursday. This effect of poetry is, of course, a matter of sensibility, first in choice of subject, and then in the treatment of it. There are more women exhibitors than men, but the poetry is not only a question of feminine refinement, for in different ways and to varying degrees the men—Mr. Lamb, Father Hanlon, Mr. Cusack and Mr. Hennessey—have poetry, too. But Miss Nano Reid probably has it to a greater degree than any other of the exhibitors. She has the mysterious gift of putting a few lines and touches of colour on a surface, and, as inevitably as with a Chinese painter of the good periods, the result is a work of art.

On the other hand, Miss Jellett, using a different, more thought-out and elaborated technique, looks at a stretch of bogland, and without deserting naturalistic representation turns the whole scene into a fantasia of colour that gleams and glows like good wine. And Frances Kelly makes a little sketch of "Dingle" which is as light in touch as if the artist had done no more than scribble a line to friends in Dublin to say that Dingle is a lovely place; yet it gives the sense of Dingle's loveliness. More solidly wrought is Joan Jameson's "Sleeping Girl," owing a little to Derain, but searching in its modelling and drawing, and charming in colour. In "The Striped Skirt," Norah McGuinness has fine free handling, and in "The Farm Garden" she produces an amusing effect as though she, with all her command of modern technique, had decided to improvise on a theme suggested by Mrs. Allingham—and brought it off successfully. One liked, too, Stella Frost's patterned and atmospheric study of "Snow on Djouce," Harriet Kirkwood's choicely arranged "Still Life," a delicate flower-piece by Sylvia Cook-Collis, and a sensitive sketch of a "Sleeping Cat" by Dorothy Blackham. Miss Eva Hamilton has some fine Western landscapes, though her distant mountains are not always as structurally solid as her foregrounds. Miss Phyllis Godfrey gets her middle-distance light extremely well in "Spring, Co. Dublin," but the foreground and the clouds overhead are less lively. And Miss Lilian Davidson's "Cuttin' Rushes" is so sympathetic that one wishes she would let herself go in the matter of colour. The day isn't always as grey in Ireland as Miss Davidson would have us believe.

KENNETH HALL

At the White Stag Gallery, 6 Lower Baggot street, Mr. Kenneth Hall is showing a series of abstract studies, mostly quiet fantasies in line and colour. Mr. Hall does not feel that his shapes have to be nightmarish merely because they are abstract. His line flows agreeably, and his colour is tasteful. But when a young artist has proved that he can produce a pleasant effect without depending on representation it may be suggested that he only makes one eager to know what he is going to achieve when it comes to integrating the results of that discipline into representational painting.

LETTERS FOR NEW ZEALAND

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES

SIR,—I have made inquiry from many possible sources of information re above, but have failed to discover how to proceed under present conditions. If I am not asking too much, I will be exceedingly obliged if you will kindly insert this letter, in the hope that I, and others in a similar position, may receive information as to the date of posting and length of letter permitted. Thanking you in anticipation.—Yours, etc.,

S. R. McGEE.

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

MR. JIM GRIFFITHS, M.P., is to put forward the mine-workers' point of view when the Commons debate on fuel is resumed. The Labour Party are still determined to demand the immediate introduction of rationing and the return of men from the Services to the pits. Mr. Griffiths was once a pit boy, and rose through all the offices in the South Wales Miners' Federation. A few years ago he took a prominent part in the steps to secure the release of Frank Ryan from Burgos Penitentiary. Like Mr. Dai Grenfell, who was prominent in the coal debate yesterday, and who had a big hand in bringing about the coal-cattle pact during the economic war, Mr. Griffiths can speak from actual working conditions underground. One of the minor grievances of the miners is that many of their daughters are earning more on comparatively light war work than they are themselves underground.

State Ownership

Considerable interest is being taken in a statement last night by the Bishop of Bradford (Dr. A. W. F. Blunt), whose historic speech referring to Edward VIII was the first public step in the events which led to the abdication six years ago. Dr. Blunt last night said that four things were absolutely necessary if Britain is to abolish undeserved poverty—the restriction of dividends, the establishment of industrial councils, reform of the system of land tenure, and the nationalisation of all great industrial resources. "We must beware of the timidity of change," he said, "and of vested interests which do not want the existing economic system altered. We have to fight the stranglehold of finance and poverty—the Bank of England 'bossing' the Empire. Whereas finance should have been the country's servant, it has become its master."

Calcium in Bread

The inclusion of calcium in bread, which is now to apply to the whole country, has already been tried out in some districts. It does not affect the flavour of the bread in the slightest, and is unnoticeable. But the dietetic experts have decided on it as a protective measure, and as something that will help to strengthen the bones and the teeth, particularly of children.

Irish Lifeboat Rewards

The Royal National Lifeboat Institution has made rewards of £55 to its crews at Dunmore East, Cloughey, Arklow and Kilmore. The Dunmore East boat landed 47 survivors from a steamer after taking out doctors and men of the Red Cross to them. Cloughey spent all night standing by a steamer which had gone on the rocks and escorted her in when she got off. Kilmore and Arklow went out in answer to signals of distress and searched half the night without finding any vessels in need of help.

An Irish Conductor

When Lieutenant Michael Bowles conducts the B.B.C. symphony orchestra of ninety to-morrow afternoon, one of his own works, "Preludes, Scherzo and Impromptu," will be given between items by Elgar and Hamilton Harty in the second session of the broadcast, from 3.45 to 4.30 p.m. The first session, from 2.30 to 3.30, is of Beethoven music. The orchestra's peace-time strength is 119, but this has been reduced because of war-time difficulties. Director of the Radio Eireann orchestra and formerly of the Irish Army School of Music, Lieutenant Bowles is one of the few "military" musicians who have had the opportunity of conducting such a great symphony orchestra, over which Sir Adrian Boult normally presides.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

America and the Abbey

American newspapers of recent weeks have carried long "feature" stories of the Abbey Theatre. They are the work of "Bill" King, of the Associated Press of America, a charming South Carolinian, who has made many friends on successive visits here during the last twelve months.

A Mid-Western Sunday paper, for example, of which I have received a copy, carries a column of his story about the Abbey under a six-column streamer headline. About half of this consists of an interview with Mr. Ernest Blythe, the managing director of this theatre.

In this interview Mr. Blythe gives much credit to Sean O'Casey for the swing of popular favour to the Abbey. The ordinary people, he said, felt that they had found a voice when O'Casey wrote of their poverty and violent political struggles as seen through the eyes of the poor.

"Leadership Forsaken"

The controversy in which "authors of heavier tragic stuff accuse the Abbey of forsaking its former leadership in important drama for light-weight comedy" is also noted, and Mr. Blythe's reply to the effect that the best Irish drama being written to-day is set in comedy moulds.

The work of the Abbey School of Acting is given a few paragraphs; it is recalled that one of its most promising pupils had been snatched away by the movies before she got a part—Maureen O'Hara.

The great prominence given to this story of present-day Ireland is a welcome sign that, despite war on one side of the Atlantic and neutrality on the other, the Americans have not lost their sympathetic interest in Ireland.

Necessities

It was a bright, warm day, as he sat on a large stone where the boreen runs into the high road. As I approached he stood up, a tall, thin man, and raised his forefinger to his forehead.

"Could you oblige me with a match?"

"Certainly; here's the box, help yourself. Have a cigarette?"

"I never touch them things," he replied.

As he filled his pipe and lit it, he rambled on: "I live all by myself, like Robinson Crusoe. I have no one; I never got married. I wish I had. All the women is good; there's no women here now for the men."

He paused, then gazed furtively around, dropped his voice to an almost inaudible whisper, and said: "I dry the nettle leaves and smoke them in the pipe; they make a little baccy go a long way. I haven't a soul to talk to, and when I get the pension, maybe I'll move into Dublin; the Dublin people is best, though it's full of people from other counties.

"I sometimes go into Roundwood and I can't get a bit of bread, and then I eat potatoes; sure they're better than this bread."

Hanging

A correspondent writes:—

Apropos of your recent reference to Lord Norbury, "the hanging judge," my maternal grandmother told me the following incident.

Her husband was an enthusiastic horseman, and a good judge of a horse. He was riding a particularly fine animal one day in the Phœnix Park, when he was stopped by Lord Norbury, who, also, was mounted.

"That is a good animal you are riding," said his lordship, "let me have a good look at it." Dismounting, he carefully scrutinised the horse, and said: "I am Lord Norbury; send it up to my house and I will try him."

"By my soul," said my grandfather, "you'll do nothing of the kind, because you never yet tried anything that you didn't hang."

QUIDNUNC.

FUNERAL

MR. EDMUND P. BURKE

The funeral of Mr. Edmund Patrick Burke, 3 Lower Mount street, Dublin, took place to Dean's Grange Cemetery yesterday, after Requiem Mass at St. Andrew's Church, Westland Row, celebrated by the Rev. Dr. R. MacNevin.

The Very Rev. G. W. Turley, Adm.; the Rev. Dr. M. J. O'Halloran, C.C.; and the Rev. P. J. Carton, C.C., were also present.

Chief mourners:—Mr. J. L. Burke, solicitor (brother); Mrs. Agnes Kennedy (sister); Master Kennedy, Taxing Master; Justice T. G. Burke, Mr. P. Burke, solicitor; Mr. R. Burke, Dr. H. King, Mr. J. King (nephews); Messrs. W. Burke, Thurles; D. Mullins, R. Burke, solicitor; A. Burke (cousins).

The attendance at the Mass included: An Taoiseach and Mrs. de Valera, Miss M. de Valera, Mr. F. Fahy, T.D., Ceann Comhairle; Mr. G. Boland, Minister for Justice; T. O Deirg, Aire Oideachais; Mr. S. MacEntee, Minister for Local Government and Public Health.

LATE PREBENDARY CARLILE

The King and Queen, Queen Mary and the Duke of Gloucester were represented at the funeral of Prebendary Carlile, founder of the Church Army, in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, yesterday. After the casket which contained the late Prebendary's ashes came three Church Army captains, bearing on red cushions the medallion and ribbon of his Companionship of Honour, his cap and Bible, and a trombone on which for thirty years he had led the singing of the hymns at his meetings and Services. The address was given by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and among those who took part in the Service were the Bishop of London and the Dean of St. Paul's (Dr. Matthews). After the Service the casket containing the ashes was interred in the Cathedral crypt.

PRESENTATION TO MR. J. C. LAWLOR

Mr. James C. Lawlor, a member of the Irish Times reporting staff, yesterday was presented with an engraved wristlet watch by his colleagues on the editorial staffs, on the occasion of his retirement. Mr. Lawlor came to the Irish Times from Fleet street, London, 40 years ago, and in that time he was in contact with most of the distinguished men of the period. He was an extremely able journalist and a loyal colleague. The presentation was made by Mr. A. M. Montgomery, chief reporter, and tributes were paid to Mr. Lawlor by the editor, Mr. R. M. Smyllie, and Mr. William Stewart, representing the sub-editorial staff. Mr. Lawlor, returning thanks, spoke of the happy associations that always had existed between the members of the staffs and himself.

DIOCESE OF KILDARE

At a meeting of the Board of Nomination for the United Parishes of Clonsast and Rathangan, held at the Diocesan Offices, 43 Kildare street, Dublin, yesterday, the Rev. Robert Watson, M.A., Secretary of the Diocesan Board of Education, was unanimously nominated to the vacant incumbency.

OBITUARY

DR. LEONARD KIDD

Dr. Leonard Kidd, who died at Enniskillen yesterday, was a physician of marked ability. An Armagh man by birth, he was educated at Foyle College and at Trinity College, Dublin. His long professional career—extending over half a century—in Enniskillen was rich in benefit not only to the town itself, but to the County of Fermanagh also. For forty years he acted as Medical Superintendent of Fermanagh County Hospital, a post from which he retired in 1937. His services there were of the highest order. The present hospital buildings in Enniskillen are a tribute alike to his good work and to his memory. His medical officership of Portora also marked a period of forty years. Dr. Kidd had been secretary of the Irish Medical Council, and also was a member of the Enniskillen Urban Council. He served in the Royal Army Medical Corps during the last war. In his student days he was sportsmaster at Foyle College, and was picked for the Irish Rugby XV. Dr. Kidd was a Prince Mason. His wife predeceased him, but he is survived by two daughters, Edie, who is Librarian for County Armagh, and Marguerite, who is secretary of Fermanagh County Hospital.

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL

At the 11 o'clock Morning Service in Christ Church Cathedral to-morrow the preacher will be the Rev. V. K. Johnson, chaplain of Queen's College, Oxford. He is one of a number of preachers from England who are to be in the Cathedral this month. On October 11th, at the 3.30 Service, one of the secretaries of the British Council of Churches, recently inaugurated by a notable Service in St. Paul's, London, the Rev. R. F. Burlingham, will be the preacher, while on October 18 and 25 the preachers at the afternoon Service are to be, respectively, the Dean of Westminster Abbey and the Dean of Gloucester. To-morrow afternoon, at 3.30, there will be the annual Festival Service of the Sunday School Society in the Cathedral, when a special form of Service for boys and girls will be used. The preacher will be the Rev. G. D. Hobson, and the anthem, "The Lord is My Shepherd."

WEDDING

Purcell—Ashenhurst. — The wedding took place yesterday at Kill Parish Church, Dean's Grange, Co. Dublin, of Mr. Edward Patrick Purcell, only son of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Purcell, Loughmoe, Saval Park, Dalkey, and Miss Mildred Esmé Ashenhurst, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Ashenhurst, Corners, Knocksinna, Stillorgan, Co. Dublin. The Service was conducted by the Rev. R. Maconchy, B.A., assisted by the Rev. A. S. Bluett, M.A., Rector of the parish. The bride was given away by her father, and was attended by her sister, Miss Sybil Ashenhurst, and by a child attendant, Miss Susan Ellerker. Mr. Edward Peet was best man, and the ushers in the church were Lieutenant Brian Crawford (cousin of the bride) and Mr. Jack McGeagh. After a reception held at Corners, Knocksinna, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Purcell left for the North of Ireland.

MILLION SHILLINGS FUND

LABOUR PARTY APPEAL

The Labour Party appeals to its friends and supporters for a MILLION SHILLINGS to fight the next General Election.

Money is urgently needed to build a powerful political organisation for Labour and finance its candidates in every Constituency.

The return of a majority of Labour Deputies to the Dail is the only alternative to continued misrule by the present Government; it is the only way to end Poverty, Unemployment and Emigration.

Assist by contributing as many Shillings and Pounds as you can to Labour's Fighting Fund.

Labour will be the next Government—hasten the day of its coming to power by acting on this Appeal NOW.

Send your donation for the MILLION SHILLINGS Fund to Deputy William Norton, Leader of the Labour Party, Leinster House; or to R. J. Connolly, Financial Secretary, 21 Molesworth Street, Dublin; or to any Labour Deputy or Senator.
